

Mr Bobby Longtime, current member of the Teaching Staff: (written in 2021)

I began teaching at the College in 2004, and despite the many changes that have occurred since that time, there are some aspects which remain part of the spirit of Trinity. Trinity continues to be a place of opportunity for families in the local community, boasting a wide range of general subjects and vocational offerings for students.

Staff at Trinity continue to strive to meet the diverse needs of students which are both pastoral and academic. Although behaviour management approaches have “pivoted”, we continue to focus on respecting learning and restoring relationships. However, chewing gum referrals have been surpassed by the unauthorised use of wireless earbuds.

The interhouse sport competitions have welcomed many iterations of each house war cry, but rhyming ‘Scortechini’ continues to baffle our lyricists. In recent times we have been unable to facilitate the College Beach-a-thon but despite this, we continue to find ways to commune around a BBQ sausage and can of drink.

If you were to ask relief staff or transient students about being at ‘Trinity’ I suspect two themes would emerge – staff are welcoming, and eager to help out, and the majority of students are genuine in their interactions and opinions. All Trinitarians at their core desire to do what is just by others, and if able, help those who need a hand. These qualities make Trinity a special place.
